REDS ADVANCE IN BEND AREA

Russian Drive Aimed at Clearing Nazis from Sector Along Dnieper.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 7 — Driving across the bleak central Ukraine southwest of Kremenchug in an offensive apparently aimed at clearing the great Dnieper bend, Red army troops under Gen. Rodion Malinovsky have severed the Germans' vital railway line between Smela and Znamenka to threaten the important stronghold of Kirovograd, 23 miles further west, a Russian communique said today.

A powerful Soviet artillery and air barrage crumbled German defenses in front of the infantry and tank advance, which stormed into the town of Tsibulevo astride the 50-mile long Znamenka-Smela rail line 14 miles northwest of Znamenka.

Twenty other towns, east of Znamenka [illegible], and [illegible] 900 Germans were killed and 17 tanks destroyed in the Red army squeeze, the Soviet bulletin said.

Capture of Tsibulevo and Olimpiadovka, southwest of Alexandriya, placed Russian columns only 23 miles from Kirovograd and apparently sealed the fate of Znamenka.

Other Soviet troops were less than six miles from Smela after an attack which by-passed the Dnieper river city of Cherkassy. Juncture of these forces with those advancing on Kirovograd apparently was regarded as imminent.

The Red army offensive now threatens security of all enemy positions in the lower Ukraine, including the stoutly-defended manganese center of Krivoi Rog.

The Russian war bulletin reported continued heavy German attacks in the Chernyakhov sector of the Kiev bulge, were beaten back.

Red army troops forged ahead northwest of Gomel, the communique said, and captured several more towns on the road to Zhlobin and Rogachev, rail centers important to the German defense system in White Russia.

VOTE NEAR ON BILL TO OVERRULE VINSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—Legislation setting aside the economic stabilizer's rejection of a flat 8 cents an hour pay boost for 1,100,000 non-operating employes of the nation's railroads appeared headed for senate approval today.

Senator Truman (D-Mo) told reporters that—barring an unexpected eleventh-hour compromise—he would call up his resolution validating the wage increase agreed upon between carriers and 15 brotherhood leaders last August.

Its passage would overrule Fred M. Vinson, economic stabilization director, who rejected the agreement on the ground it would crack the little steel formula which permits only a 15 per cent increase over January 1, 1941 pay levels.

IRVIN COBB ILL

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—Irvin S. Cobb, 67-year-old author, radio entertainer and motion picture star, was reported as "quite sick" at his Hotel Sheraton apartment here today by his wife, Mrs. Cobb, however, said the Kentucky-born writer was not seriously ill.

54 Tons of Paper Gathered by Pupils of St. Mary School

A total of 54 tons of waste paper was collected recently by the 440 pupils of St. Mary Parochial school in response to the national appeal. Rev. Francis Lay, assistant pastor, supervised the drive, lasting over three week-ends, and the total collected was announced when the drive ended Saturday at 5 o'clock.

All grades participated in the drive and the paper was brought to the school on the week-ends and loaded on a truck parked at the school for that purpose by Malo Bros. Grade 8 ranked highest with an average of 439 pounds per student. Grade 4 was second with 419 pounds and the freshmen ranked third with 397 pounds.

Three students, Richard Hickman and Richard Gunger, both of the fourth grade, and James Zins, freshman, contributed one ton each. For a few days grade 4 was leading but finally grade 8 stepped into first place and held the lead. Their slogan was "every man works."

Ribbon awards were given individually in the various classes to the workers and by the end of the drive some of the pupils were wearing ribbons of every color of the rainbow. Each color represented a different amount and the students were awarded the ribbons as they brought in the following amounts: red, 100 pounds; white, 250; blue, 500; gold, 750; green, 1,000; silver, 1,250; orchid, 1,500; rose, 1,750; a red-and-white-blue bow over the multicolored ribbons designated the wearer had contributed a ton.

Average for the entire school was figured at 260 pounds per student.

GERMANS NOW OUTCLASSED ON LAND, SEA, AIR

Agreements Reached at Teheran Force Enemy To Split Weaker Forces.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 7 — The Teheran promise of allied attack from the east, west and south confronts German leaders with the problem of disposing [illegible] numerically inferior forces in an effort to avoid destruction by the mightiest military machine the world has ever known.

Against the combined strength of the United States, Britain and Russia Adolf Hitler now faces six military forces outclassed by land, sea and air.

His soldiers are outnumbered by at least three to two, his air force by at least three to one and the seas are dominated by allied navies.

Germany now is believed able to muster 320 divisions which with non-divisional combat troops, would mean a fighting force of around 5,500,000 plus 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 in supply service and administrative jobs.

Outmatched in Russia

Almost certainly Russia alone can more than match this. Military observers here would be surprised if the Red army numbered less than 350 divisions with a combat complement of more than 6,000,000.

The Russians' own production, plus lend-lease help, has made Soviet equipment as plentiful and as good or better than the Germans'.

Even if the Red army only counts 20-odd armored divisions against Germany's 30-odd, its artillery divisions probably give it an over-all fire power greater than that of the German army.

Combined British and American ground strength in the Mediterranean and Britain is in the neighborhood of 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 and growing steadily.

Because of the weight, fierceness and skill of the Red army, the German high command seems committed to maintaining about two-thirds of its force on the eastern front. Stalin on Nov. 6 said 207 German divisions faced the Russians.

About 40 Nazi divisions are known to be in France and the low countries, 12 in Norway, seven in Finland, 25 in Italy and 23 in the Balkans and Greece—leaving virtually no strategical reserve.

Nazi Air Strength

Best estimates here are that the German air force can present a front line strength of no more than 1,200 to 1,500 bombers and 2,500 to 3,000 fighters.

How again Russia alone may be able to match all the German power.

The RAF fleet of heavy bombers must total upwards of 2,000, while the U. S. Army Air Force had upwards of 1,000 in the United Kingdom in early autumn.

The combined British-American fighter strength in the Mediterranean and the United Kingdom

POISE FURTHER PACIFIC BLOWS

New Invasion Threat Hangs Over Japs in Marshalls and New Britain.

By The Associated Press

The threat of invasion was poised over two key positions in the sprawling Japanese empire today as the second anniversary of Pearl Harbor showed preparations on the fighting and production fronts for allied assaults in the Pacific.

Heavy aerial blows suggested possible invasion of the Marshall islands in the central Pacific, and New Britain in the southwest Pacific, vital enemy bases for the ultimate defense of the Philippines and Japan.

The growth of American naval might after Pearl Harbor was symbolized by the new 45,000-ton battleship, Wisconsin, to be launched today, while it was disclosed in Washington top priorities had been granted for a vast fleet of invasion craft.

The Navy contributed another cheering note in the announcement that American submarines sank 11 more Japanese cargo vessels, raising to 516 the grand total of all enemy ships sent to the bottom of the Pacific since Dec. 7, 1941.

Two Years Yet

Authoritative sources in Washington predicted, however, it may take another two years to defeat Japan.

As for the Japanese, the Tokyo radio asserted the declaration of

The [illegible] issued jointly by Roosevelt, Churchill and Marshal Stalin contained no information of possible developments here by announcing "complete agreement as to the scope and timing of the operations to be undertaken from the east, west and south."

Observers here believe a thrust into the Balkans would precede any attack across the channel in order to bring maximum pressure on Nazi Europe at all points.

While victory over Japan is considered equally certain, authorities say no such confidence with respect to time is now possible. Allied forces admittedly have a long and costly way to go.

The most immediate prospects for new action against Japan lie in the southeastern Asia theater where Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten has been accumulating ships, planes and men for a campaign against enemy-held Burma, Malaya and eventually Singapore.

BLACKEST DAY TWO YEARS AGO

Tide of War Has Turned Since Japanese Sneak Attack on Pearl Harbor.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 — ... December 7, two years ago today that is remembered in Washington as one of infamy on the part of a treacherous enemy. The day itself requires no reminder.

With those words President Roosevelt echoed last week a resolution to commemorate this day.

"The President has set his face against any celebration of the day, against pro-laining observance of the surprise blow struck by Japanese airmen, against recalling the humiliations of America's Pacific bastion. They are not the occasion for a holiday, but the day does not lack cause for pride.

Since that time the Army has grown from 1,000,000 to five times that size with 2,300,000 men in the mightiest air force in the world. The Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard have reached a strength of nearly 3,000,000. The fleet is twice its size before Pearl Harbor.

Record Never Surpassed

No nation in history ever raised such a military force in so short a time. The nation has performed industrial miracles.

All this began to happen immediately after the blow at Pearl Harbor, and it gathered momentum during the interval provided by the desperate resistance of men who fought until they dropped, and delayed the aggressor, ruined his chance for a quick victory, and therefore his hope for victory at all.

"The Marines held Wake Island until Dec. 24. Hitler became a symbol of fortitude and defiance. Before it collapse April 9, and Corregidor held out 27 days longer.

April 18 James H. Doolittle's medium bombers gave Tokyo a token of what was to come, and May 4-8 the battle of the Coral Sea was fought. The Japanese had reached their high tide—in the South Pacific. Aug. 7, the Marines landed on Guadalcanal in the Solomons, and the offensive had passed from the Japanese to the allies.

On the other side of the world, the allies were fighting just as desperately.

By May, Rommel launched an offensive in Egypt. American divisions were stripped of their tanks to give the British needed equipment. And the British held at El Alamein.

Nazis Reach Limit

The Germans advanced in Russia. Sevastopol fell July 2, and on Sept. 13 the Nazis entered Stalingrad. But Stalingrad did not fall. Like the Japanese in the Coral sea, the Germans had gone as far as they were going. Oct. 23 Alexander and Montgomery launched the offensive that was to hurl Rommel back to Tunisia. On Nov. 7 U. S. and British forces landed in French North Africa, and on Nov. 19 the Red army launched its twin offensives around Stalingrad.

The tide had turned. Italy has been knocked out of the war, the air offensive is increasing in power and Anglo-American armies are poised for new blows.

Significantly, the last day of America's second year at war brought the official announcement of the Teheran conference of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin.

The third year begins with their promise that the master plan is completed for crushing Germany, that "our attacks will be relentless and increasing."

Girl Bitten by Mad Dog Is Sought in Ohio

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 7—An 18-year-old blond Texas girl bitten by a dog Nov. 24 in Texas is being sought by the state highway patrol. The dog later developed rabies.

The unknown girl, accompanied by four companions in uniform, stopped to play with several dogs at the Colorado river bridge at Bastrop, Tex., or her companions noted at that time. The group were headed east, police said.

Texas state police broadcast an appeal to find authorities to find the girl and get her to a doctor as soon as possible.

INONU MEETS LEADERS FOR CAIRO TALKS

Returns To Ankara After Conference with Roosevelt and Churchill.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 7 — A conference between ... Roosevelt, Prime Minister ... and President ... of Turkey has been in progress in North Africa ... and the ... Turkey's ... the ... war against ...

The participation of Inonu in conferences with Roosevelt and Churchill apparently was based on the never-implemented British-Turkish pact of 1939 which pledged Turkey to aid Britain in the event of aggression leading to war in the Mediterranean.

The diplomatic correspondent of the British Press association wrote, "Churchill and Roosevelt are in conference with President Ismet Inonu of Turkey and their deliberations may in due course have almost as important an effect upon the course and conduct of the war as the great Allied talks which already have taken place in Cairo and Teheran."

The Berlin radio said the conference had been completed in Cairo and that Inonu had returned to Ankara, where the Turkish cabinet would meet in special session.

German spokesmen meanwhile told Swedish correspondents that "the allies are exerting heavy pressure to force Turkey to join the war."

(A Budapest broadcast heard by U. S. government monitors said Bulgarian Premier Dobri Bojilov had conferred with the Turkish minister in Sofia after a meeting of the Bulgarian cabinet last night. It declared "well-informed political circles in Sofia connect this cabinet meeting with the Turkish-Anglo-Saxon-Soviet conference.")

Franz von Papen, the German ambassador, talked for nearly an hour yesterday with Turkish Premier Sukru Saracoglu, Reuters reported today in a dispatch from Ankara.

No Confirmation

There has been no allied confirmation of such a conference. Cairo dispatches yesterday stated the whereabouts of President Roosevelt had not been disclosed although it was revealed that Churchill had attended combined British-American military parleys in Cairo subsequent to the Teheran meeting.

Reports reaching Budapest from Sofia, however, indicated the Nazis were moving troops through Bulgaria in the direction of the Turkish border.

Taking a Turkish-British-American conference for granted, George Sylvester, political correspondent of the German overseas news agency, a Nazi propaganda organ, asserted the "Wilhelmstrasse does not think it fit to consider this Turkish-allied meeting as just a routine trip of the Turkish president."

Sees Turks Firm

In London, Wilson Broadbent, Daily Mail correspondent, wrote, "now that the climax seems to have arrived and the Germans are beginning to bluster and show their hand, I believe the Turkish government will not hesitate. They will declare themselves for the allies and assume all the responsibility which that entails."

"If Turkey should cast her lot with the allies, she could play an important role in the offensive Stalin, Roosevelt and Church plotted at Teheran. Allied armies in Italy already are moving toward Germany from the south, but Turkish participation would open the way for a full-scale assault on the Balkans, also from the south."

Biggest Ration Stamp Haul Made by Thief

By The Associated Press

KEOKUK, Ia., Dec. 7—Ration coupons for 1,318,175 gallons of gasoline, 1,550 shoe stamps and 1,082 copies of ration book No. 4 were stolen from a storage vault here in what E. P. Edwards, field operations officer for the office of price administration described as "the biggest haul of that kind in the middle west."

Edwards said there was no question but that the robber was connected with a "black market" and that the safe was "cracked by a professional."

Pearl Harbor Sunday Quiet In Marion Till Bad News Came

Surge of Activity Two Years Ago Today Was Start of Angry Response to Sneak Attack.

Two years ago today Marion residents were in the midst of fairly normal Sunday afternoon pursuits when the startling news came in that the Japs had attacked Pearl Harbor.

Marion men were in military service at the time, but the emphasis at that time was on "defense." Marion, like every other American community, was buying "defense bonds," doing "defense work," and otherwise getting set for any eventuality but life was on a near-normal basis as compared with now.

Pearl Harbor changed all of that. Marion and the nation bought "war bonds," worked in "war plants" and the whole thinking of the rank and file of Marion residents seemed to change almost overnight.

A glance at the news columns of The Star for early December of 1941 provides an interesting picture of how Marion residents reacted to the fateful news. Most persons can remember the day clearly—almost anyone can tell you when and where they first heard the news—but it's interesting to look back in the light of what has since happened to survey the news of Marion at Pearl Harbor time.

"Extra" Tells Story

The Marion Star put out an extra that Sunday night about 7 o'clock, and its four-line streamers told the story: "Japan Attacks U. S. Pacific Bases Without Warning; Battles on Sea and in Air Follow; 350 Killed at Air Field; President Calls Cabinet."

Most Marion residents probably reacted about the same way to this news. Most of them felt a touch of nausea at the treachery and of thoughts about how our fighting men had been caught almost helpless. Then that feeling quickly turned to one of anger and an intense desire to do something about it. Not everyone was in position to do something about it immediately, but looking back over the two years that have elapsed, it would seem safe to say that a big majority of Marion residents have done something—to the extent of altering their entire mode of life and centering on the one big job of beating an enemy.

One of the first persons to make a public comment in Marion on the attack was Charles F. Silber, naval recruiting officer who had seen several years of service in the Pacific battle zone before coming here. He said, "They might have done some damage, but not as much as we will do when we get started."

Action Comes Quickly

By Monday, Marion and the whole nation started to get on an "all out" war basis. Draft officials cleared the decks for large-scale inductions. Marion's civilian defense organization swung into an intensified program—and remember that on Pearl Harbor Day the possibility of a Jap invasion of the west coast didn't Borden's regrets withdrawal from the dairy business of an honored and respected competitor—and at the same time welcomes the opportunity to extend their own service and facilities to the people of Marion. No stranger in this community, Borden's—the Most Famous Name in Milk—has served well and faithfully for many years through their local Moores & Ross plant.

Pasteurizing and processing equipment of the Zachman Dairy will be moved immediately to the Borden plant, and dairymen who produced milk for Mr. Zachman will continue to ship their product to Borden's. Former Zachman customers will experience no inconvenience whatsoever during the changeover.

Borden's is an old and honored name in the milk industry. The Borden Company was founded over 86 years ago by Gail Borden, inventor of condensed milk, and one of the founders of the Texas Republic.

Through the years Borden's has built an enviable reputation for high quality products and fair dealing, and it is the ambition of the local Borden management to add to this reputation.

The immense facilities of the Borden organization—facilities that cover laboratory research, dairy farm improvement, processing knowledge, and marketing experience —will now be available in full to these new Borden customers.

New Ceiling Price On Corn Now Effective

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—New ceiling prices on corn became effective by OPA order yesterday, and the prices of oats, barley and sorghum grains were frozen preparatory to issuance of a permanent regulation, expected in 60 days.

The order, issued late Saturday, authorized a nine-cent boost for the corn ceiling, from a prevailing level of $1.07 to $1.16, Chicago basis, and was designed to stimulate flow of the grain to the terminal markets and into general distribution.

OPA also explained the action was taken because partly for corn had increased since the corn regulation order of March, 1943.

Grapevine Carries News of President's Visit to Soldiers

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Dec. 7—(AP)—A story of President Roosevelt's arrival in this war theater en route to the Cairo and Teheran conferences the guests themselves brought the news to soldiers fighting in Italy hundreds of miles from where the Chief Executive landed.

The President and his party arrived at a busy Mediterranean city. The President disclosed that he landed in Morocco. Although thousands of soldiers and Frenchmen swarmed over the city, not more than half a dozen saw the President as he sped by en route through the town.

The President flew to an airfield where he was greeted by his son Elliott, on duty with an air reconnaissance duty in this theater, and his son-in-law, Major John Boettiger, now attached to the Fifth army.

On the airfield were army transport pilots saw the presidential party. Within six hours they had carried the news to advance airports in Italy where truck drivers pushed the news further and it was carried to most advance points by the next day.

The President spent the night with Eisenhower, discussing the military situation with the commander-in-chief and Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, who accompanied him.

Next day the President and his party departed by plane for Cairo with heavy fighter escort.

ASHLAND NAVIGATOR ON RAFT FOR SIX DAYS

Unusual Troubles Beset 10 Survivors But All Rescued.

By The Associated Press

WITH THE 7TH AIR FORCE IN THE PACIFIC, Nov. 24—(Delayed)—Sharks that tore the fishhooks off their lines limited four airmen adrift in a rubber boat to a diet of two fish and rainwater for the six days they floated aimlessly about in the Pacific.

The story was told today by Lieut. Paul Hardy of Huntington, W. Va., pilot of a naval land plane that crash landed in the ocean, out of gas and lost. The crew of 10 escaped but a Marine combat correspondent was lost.

Five men could get only two life rafts out of the plane and one of these—capable of carrying four men—wouldn't inflate. Two of the men blew it up with their own lung power. Six men climbed on one raft and four on the other. One of the group was Ensign Diane Pfeo of Ashland, O., navigator.

"We had a couple of small sails but no way to navigate and no idea of where we were so we couldn't use them except as covers to keep the sun off," Hardy said.

"We had no water for 50 hours.

"The other raft was roped to us for a while the first night but the rope broke and we were unable to see them in the morning."

The two rafts were picked up 100 miles apart.

Home-Mixed Syrup Relieves Coughs Quickly

Saves Big Dollars. So Easy! No Cooking.

A real surprise awaits you, in your own kitchen, for the relief of coughs due to colds. You can easily mix a cough syrup that gives you about 4 times as much for your money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtainable from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup, and you have a full pint of really wonderful cough medicine. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and children love it.

This mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

Business matters which will include conferences and reports to the Methodist Board of Missions under whose direction Dr. and Mrs. Weiss carried on their work in China will keep them in New York City for approximately another week. They expect to come to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seiter next Tuesday.

Mr. Seiter, who went to New York last Tuesday night, spent Wednesday as near the pier as he could, awaiting word of the arrival of his daughter and family. Around 8 p. m. he was informed through the Red Cross that no passengers would be taken off the ship until the next day and he returned to his hotel. He was at the offices of the Methodist Board of Missions early Thursday and about mid-morning he was informed by the Red Cross that Dr. and Mrs Weiss had left the ship and would soon be over to the office of the board. He was waiting at the curb when the taxi with the family arrived.

Mrs. Weiss told her father she never expected to get back to the states and that since going to Shanghai in July last year they had always been within hearing distance of bombings. They had not heard from Mr. and Mrs. Seiter since the outbreak of the war two years ago. Mrs. Seiter said today they had written often but that always the letters had been returned.

Mr. Seiter reports that Mrs. Weiss and daughter were well and that all had stood the trip fine. Dr. Weiss, he stated, was not so well and had been kept quite busy on the trip home as many of the 1,500 passengers, particularly elderly persons and children, were ill and required the services of a physician. It was an eventful trip for Elizabeth Ann for enroute home she had her first taste of candy and ice cream. She made lots of friends aboard ship who saw that she was well supplied with these delicacies as well as being entertained, and her mother hinted a little disciplining may be in the offing, Mr. Seiter states.

Taken all in all it was a pleasant trip, the family reports. Some parts of the journey they found pretty warm, and they suffered more from heat at points north and south of the equator than when actually crossing the line.

WPB Asks for Minimum Use of Yule Lighting

As part of the War Production Board program to conserve critical resources, Christmas lighting installations have been restricted, Edward J. Mulligan, manager of the WPB's Columbus district said today.

Public and commercial displays are principally affected by the order, but patriotic participation by home owners in curtailing lawn or other outdoor lighting for the Christmas holiday season is being urged, Mr. Mulligan explained.

The new restriction prohibits utilities from installing temporary extensions to serve Christmas lighting displays. Besides saving critical materials, this action will conserve coal needed for electricity and power generation, and man-hours that would be wasted otherwise.

The spirit of the Yuletide season can be effectively carried out by the usual interior decorations against which there are no restrictions, Mr Mulligan said in remarking that many community Christmas trees and displays were "blacked-out" a year ago. At that time, military reasons were uppermost, but conservation of resources makes the power-fuel-labor saving essential during the coming holiday season, Mr. Mulligan added.

SEES PEACE CERTAIN IN FARMERS' HANDS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 7—Farm people of the world can "do more to preserve peace than could any other group," Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation told the organization's annual convention today.

In an address prepared for delivery to the opening session, O'Neal asserted, "I have great confidence in the common sense of farm people and I believe that if farm people can have a voice in working out some of the international problems, the world will be better off.

"I hope to see the day when representatives of farm people elected by the people and not appointed by the government will get together at regular intervals to consider their mutual problems and to work them out.

"• • • If we are to maintain the peace of the world, we must encourage world trade on a fair basis. To accomplish this, it will be necessary to stabilize the currency of the nations. • • •

"It must be apparent to everybody that reconstruction of the economies of the nations participating in the war can never be carried out successfully unless each nation is given access to raw materials, and the right to exchange some of their surplus products for the products of other nations that they need and want.

O'Neal declared the United States "lost the peace as a direct result of a mistaken policy of isolationism," and added we must have "international agreements, even an international mechanism of some sort through which problems between nations are met and resolved."

Turning to domestic policies, O'Neal pointed out, "I am not one who believes that government can be taken entirely out of some regulations of our domestic affairs," and asserted the need of the nation was "the smashing of all artificial barriers that obstruct the production and free movement of goods."

He attacked subsidies on grounds it would be a "herculean task" to eliminate them, and because, once the war is ended, "it would be politically easy to utilize the deflationary process as a potent argument for the continuance of subsidies."

Liquor Cards Ordered Punched at State Stores

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 7 — A punch in time may help distribute the state's liquor supply more evenly.

Discovering that some registrants were removing the stamped record of a liquor purchase from ration cards and reusing them in the same ration period, liquor director Don A. Fisher ordered state retail stores to punch as well as stamp the cards.

"Registrants would cover their ration cards with a thin coat of paraffine before presenting them for stamping," Fisher explained, "and then scrape the film off with a knife, removing the record. In this way they could present the card again and again in the same period."

FIRE CHIEF, CAPTAIN EXAMINATIONS HELD

Five Seek Top Job, Six Others Bid for Captaincy.

Examinations for city fire chief and city fire captain were given in the Central fire station last night by the city civil service commission.

George T. Geran, secretary of the commission, said today that five of the city's six present fire department captains took the test to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Fire Chief T. J. McFarland. Six other members of the department were given examinations for a captaincy, a vacancy which will be created by the promotion of one of the present captains to the post of chief.

Taking the examination for chief were: Owen Sifritt, James Rynn, Ora C. Stafford, A. D. Boyd and George Fetter. Fred Reiff is the only captain in the department who did not take the test.

George Haines, Edgar Cook, Charles McDonald, Charles J. Stafford, Robert Swisher and Charles Erow took the examination for the captaincy. James R. Riddle, who previously filed application declaring himself a candidate for captain, did not take the test, Mr. Geran reported.

Mr. Geran said that grading of the tests was started today and will be completed in the next day or so. As soon as the grades have been compiled the civil service commission will certify only the highest candidate for each post to Safety-Service Director C. C. Caldwell for appointment. In other cases the commission certifies an appointment.

Declaration of Teheran

AMERICANS have reason to feel confident about the declaration from the Teheran conference. It reflects the determination they have of the British and Russians to win the war and the peace by greater cooperation than ever before between co-belligerents. It leaves nothing to be desired.

Though not part of the official declaration, a statement attributed to Marshal Stalin at Mr. Churchill's birthday dinner is especially gratifying to Americans. 'Without American production,' said the chief spokesmen for Soviet Russia, 'the United Nations could never have won this war.'

Americans have conceded without hesitation that Russia's amazing and unexpected fighting strength cracked Germany's army. They have given the British credit for standing up under Germany's air power and sea power and fighting it to a standstill. But in the European theater their own fighting ability on land, on sea and in the air necessarily was outshown by those who had been at it longer and had the additional advantage of fighting for their own immediate security.

As a nation, the United States has considered its most important job in the war to date to be the production of war material. Occasional signs that its allies might be inclined to belittle its efforts in comparison with what they were doing have had a bad effect. Marshal Stalin seems to understand how to make goodwill, along with his other accomplishments.

Italian Toehold

EVIDENCE that the same tactics which loosened the German hold in Libya and produced the retreat only recently slowed down by a combination of difficult terrain and weather in Italy is accumulating. The secret of these tactics lies in the massing of predominant power and its exertion against the enemy until he must fall back to escape it. The Germans have fallen back from the border of Egypt, from Libya into Tunisia, from Tunisia to Sicily, from Sicily to Italy and now are retreating unhurriedly, but still retreating, northward to Rome. Eventually, if expectations prove justified, their retreat will be hastened, until it finally reaches a climax when they reach the final approaches to Austria.

The Italian toehold being exploited by the Allies, while it has not produced any conclusive victories to date, has been growing stronger daily and, on the evidence of the increasing use of strafing planes and dive bombers based behind the Allied lines, may now be strong enough to give Germany more than a secondary annoyance. It is a fact usually overlooked that it has brought the Allied forces closer to German territory than they stand on any other front in these early months of the fifth year of the war.

News Is When It Happens

NEWSPAPER readers and radio listeners aren't concerned with the technique of news releases, except on the occasions when something obviously goes haywire. Something obviously went haywire on the handling of news releases about the Cairo and Teheran conferences. In both cases while newspapers were holding official announcements for release, the news was distributed by unofficial sources. While it has not been unusual during the war for strategists in the war of nerves to put out 'feelers' in advance of official announcements, in this case the unofficial news turned out to be the straight story.

Two facts about news, which may seem to conflict each other, emerge from the discussion stirred by the mixup. First, news is created when a meeting happens. Second, news isn't information until it has been processed and conveyed to the public. The conferences made news the instant they convened. But news does not become public information until it had been processed and relayed to the public, a complex operation of radio, telegraphy, editing, composition, mechanical procedures and, finally, public comprehension of the event. In the case of the conference, the operation also included numerous government officials who had their various orders.

Obviously, what happened was that this operation got out of hand. The technique went awry. The points of contact were too far-flung. Too many government authorities had gone too much planning; they outwitted themselves. It was not, on the whole, much of a performance—and the newspapers and radio services were left holding the bag, are hoping for something better in the future. It couldn't very well be much worse.

News Behind the News

Some New Dealers Reported Resisting Hull's Plan for Unity on Foreign Policy.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Mr. Hull is encountering obstacles in his effort to attain American unity for peacetime postwar foreign policy. Curiously enough, not precisely from the Republicans.

A large segment of New Deal politicos do not want unity, although, naturally, they will not say so. As they see it, the postwar policies which will be developed from the Moscow and Cairo arrangements are likely to furnish the most popular front that the administration can present to the public in the next elections—at least, it will be better than allowing the people to look too much at the home front.

In short, they think their best chance of election is to let the Republicans take a partisan stand against them.

But there is evidence that other internationalist group leaders and writers are leaning away from their old 'one world' or Anglo-Russo-American exclusive alliance theories as cure-alls in themselves and working toward a constructive peace proposal based on self interest in whatever form.

Change of Tone

A straw in this wind is the seeming change in the leading commentators' tone. One who took a strong alliance position is now advocating what he recently called a peace based on "an enlightened conception of enduring national interest."

He (Walter Lippmann) agreed that paper charters are valueless except as measured against this enduring national self-interest of the participants—an acceptance of the urged suggestions of this column.

Mr. Hull too is reported by his friends to be veering away from the old league of nation idea—the theory that all you need to make and keep the peace is an international organization.

Reservations of unity, therefore, are now said to be making progress.

Trend Is Clear

The trend is a far greater change than when the details of the vast generalizations among the leading statesmen are worked out in both China and Europe, they will bear implications which will break the current enthusiasm for them and arouse discouraging partisan disturbance.

Peace Rumors Hit

The administration is reported greatly upset because business officials in the government here are reading back to their home plant officials the rumors (mostly personal summaries) of an early peace.

A publicity effort to offset this information is under way in the government. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau has spoken out strongly against early peace reports, and later Secretary Hull called them "axis propaganda." His designation of them as such was due to the fact that most of the printed rumors have come from neutral European capitols in touch with Germany.

This is all orthodox administration line grounded in the theory that the workers will let down in expectation of an early peace. The line long since has reached its limit of effectiveness, and the theory merely represents a mishandling of administration propaganda.

The government, on one hand, is telling the axis nations "they will be crushed" and breathing fire of expected victory in its foreign propaganda, while, on the home front, trying to maintain an attitude that it will be a long, tough war. To present it both ways strains the popular vision until it becomes cross-eyed.

Some Expect Long War

The truth is some officials here still hold to the long-war theory (Germany in the spring, Japan in 18 months), but a majority of congress, I am sure, does not.

Those who believe in an early end are not inspired by axis propaganda, but by expert judgment or advice as to Germany's lasting ability. Indeed, the axis propaganda from Berlin is just the opposite of this and holds Germany will never collapse.

Perhaps some few axis agents in this country may be trying to promote lethargy in this way, but they do not control public opinion.

Why does not the administration use these facts to its own best advantage and adopt a propaganda line recently suggested in this spot:

Every day this war is extended means the life of some boy, perhaps your boy, the waste of more money. Therefore, it is to your own selfish interest as a worker on the home front to throw every last ounce of energy into this final drive for victory in order that the casualty list be not extended one day more than necessary.

Today and Tomorrow

Confidence and Strength Seen in Allied Pronouncements at Cairo, Teheran.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WE MAY take it as certain that the Allied leaders could not have "reached complete agreement as to the scope and timing of operations" if, in Europe as well as Asia, they did not have the initiative and superior reserves.

When a coalition of allies is on the defensive in many scattered theaters and is not strong enough in any of the theaters a unified strategy is an almost unattainable ideal.

We have come a long way from the days when each country and each theater of war was the competitor of every other — when Madame Chiang Kai-shek was pleading for a Chinese front, Stalin for a European front, some for the Mediterranean front, others for the bombing offensive, some for an attack by MacArthur from Australia, others for a naval offensive from Hawaii.

The clamor and the conflicting claims were so vehement that many who are defeatists in spirit felt that, like so many of the coalitions of history, this alliance would dissolve perhaps before we had won the war and certainly before a good peace could be established.

The clamor of the conflict aroused so much feeling that men came to argue that the reason why the United Nations were not united in their strategical plans was that the vital interests of Britain, Russia, China and America were irreconcilable. But it is now evident that the lack of unity was the direct consequence of the lack of adequate military power.

Unity of Plan Reached

The clamor has subsided, the big conflicts have been resolved at Moscow, Cairo and Teheran, into agreements because in the last analysis the Allies are now the masters of the war. Unity of plan has at long last been reached because the Allies now have ample and ever-growing resources of power. They are no longer quarreling about how to divide inadequate forces.

No one, not even pleading and confusion, could in itself have produced this agreement. It is the product of the fact that the United States, the British Empire, Russia and China, not least among them, American power.

And, therefore, though it is true to say that "the common understanding which we have here reached guarantees that victory will be ours," it is equally true that because the guarantees of victory were in their hands, Messrs. Roosevelt, Stalin, Churchill and Chiang Kai-shek could in these two conferences reach a common understanding. Nations which are faced with defeat will separate and quarrel, as we can see in the case of Germany and Italy and the satellites of the Axis.

Certainty of Agreement

Though the Allied leaders made no specific declarations at Teheran, like those at Cairo, except the pledge to Iran, the atmosphere of confidence in the postwar settlement was unmistakable. They may not have reached and, probably did not reach, specific agreements on all the difficult questions of the settlement. But there can be little doubt that when they left Teheran, they felt certain they would be able to agree.

This confidence, which could not be a diplomatic pretense, undoubtedly rests upon the conviction of each of the leaders that the vital interests of his country are now secure, and that, therefore, they have no reason to divide and quarrel over issues which, however important, are not vitally important.

Thus the tone of their declaration is infused with the moderation and magnanimity which come from the confidence of strength.

It was made evident first at Cairo and then at Teheran that we intend to rely again not upon supposedly clever manipulation but upon the broadly national and popular forces of the world which look to us for leadership.

Soldier Wives Harvest

By The Associated Press

PETERSBURG, Va. — Not only the soldiers work around nearby Camp Lee — but their wives get up bright and early too. Wives of 25 soldiers are helping to harvest part of the peanut crop in this area.

The first true newspaper published in England appeared in August, 1642.

"NAZI WINTER LINE"

You Were Lucky If You Didn't Get Hurt

EACH year, National Safety Council publishes a collection of odd accidents that happened in the preceding 12 months—the "cream of the croppers."

Besides being a reminder of the thousand and one ways in which a careful person may get hurt, the list also furnishes an annual series of chuckles over the mishaps of the other fellow. Here are a few prizes from the 1943 collection:

In Ponca City, Okla., Dr. W. A. Franklin stood before his junior high school class to demonstrate how to handle matches safely. "First," he explained, "you remove the match from its container. Then you close the container." Dr. Franklin flipped open the container to remove the match, the matches ignited and he burned his hand severely.

At Hammonton, N. J., a truck driven by Jules Press was struck by a speeding train. Mr. Press and the truck and its contents all flew into the air. Included in the contents were four blankets, which came down in a pile. Then Mr. Press came down on the blankets, uninjured.

Own Advice Falls

In Brooklyn, N. Y., Herbert L. Carpenter had had enough of subway rushes. They were inconvenient, dangerous and unnecessary. He drew up a plan to eliminate them, took it to city hall. Later the same day, Mr. Carpenter was taken to a hospital for treatment of injuries sustained in a subway rush.

In Omaha, Neb., the Berigans had a hectic few moments when Bozo, the family dog, caught his foot and tail in a mowing machine. Mr. Berigan jumped a fence to rescue the dog, cut himself on one knee, hit himself in eye with the other. His daughter, Pat, hearing the commotion, ran out of the house, slipped and sprained her wrist. His wife, who was canning vegetables, got excited and cut her finger. Chamo, the other Berigan dog, jumped over a half-door in the barn to see what was going on and had to be treated for a broken foot.

In Chicago, everybody felt good because in the game between Philips High and Amundsen High not a player was injured. Unfortunately, one of the Phillips subs got so excited over a touchdown that he jerked Coach Lou Tortorelli's arm out of its shoulder socket, however.

As would be expected, some of the oddest accidents that turned up during the year occurred to men in the armed services.

During maneuvers in Tennessee, lightning struck a sleeping bag, neatly welding the closed zipper from end to end and rendering helpless the frightened soldier who was asleep inside.

Coconut Casualty

Pvt. Ernest M. Scofield of Denver was huddled in a foxhole in the Solomons, keeping out of range of enemy shot and shell. A bullet dislodged a coconut overhead, which landed on Pvt. Scofield's left leg, broke it and he became the war's first coconut casualty.

Lt. D. M. Shultz of the army air forces ran into trouble over Portland and bailed out. He landed on the roof of the U. S. Veterans' hospital, reefed his parachute and hospital attendants were on hand immediately to take care of his minor injuries.

Sgt. D. P. Smith, an aerial gunner with Australia's flying forces, was on leave in Chicago, and tried his hand at bowling. He wasn't bad for a novice, but he forgot to let loose of the ball on one of his lustier heaves and made his first crash landing—on a bowling alley.

Staff Sgt. Leroy Post of Evanston, especially lucky, was given the Distinguished Flying Cross and oak leaf cluster for his part in 37 bombing missions in the New Guinea area. He was then removed from the danger zone for service as an instructor in an armament shop in Salt Lake City. A few days later his arm was caught in a machine and the bone was fractured.

Through Open Drawbridge

A Milwaukee youth drove a car up the rising leaf of a drawbridge, stuck with it through an 18-foot leap over the open gap, crawled out uninjured as the car landed, a pancake wreck, on the other side.

Up in Saskatchewan, a horseback rider was unable to keep his frightened steed from bolting into a passing freight train. He was tossed unhurt onto a flat car as the horse backed away and fell dead.

Davie, city-bred horse in Detroit, wrecked his buggy when he saw a terrifying sight in traffic—another horse.

In Centerville, Ia., Mrs. Blanche Heck, lying in bed, had decided to do something about her winter coal. There was a crash and a splintering of wood. A loaded coal truck came through the side of the house, pushed Mrs. Heck's bed through the wall into the next room and left her uninjured, next to a hot stove.

"What! No dames?"

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Dec. 7, 1933.

Raymond F. Davis, 47, vice president of the National Bank & Trust Co. of Columbus, and his wife, Thelma, 42, were killed instantly when their car was struck by a New York Central flier at the crossing in Cardington.

More than 250 members and guests attended the annual meeting of the Marion County Farm Bureau in Schwinger's hall. H. H. Berringer of Waldo township and H. H. Connolly were reelected president and vice president, respectively, and W. S. Wilson of Grand Prairie township was named secretary-treasurer.

Approximately 500 members and guests witnessed impressive ceremonies marking the installation of officers of Lydia Chapter No. 83, Order of the Eastern Star in the Masonic temple. Mrs. Mary Livensparger was installed as worthy matron and Ralph Carhart as worthy patron.

Carlton S. Dargusch, state tax commissioner, predicted in a joint session of the judiciary committees of the house and senate, that it would be a long time before the state would see liquor sold cheaply by the glass.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Dec. 7, 1923.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in his annual report to congress said as a result of sound, conservative business judgement and principles America had virtually completed a recovery industrially from the effects of the World War and the crisis of 1921.

It was announced that effective Sunday, Dec. 9, a change would be made in operation of street cars on the Center-Davids division. Cars were to be operated on the same time schedules but with only one man on each car east of Jefferson street on Center and south of Wood street on Davids.

In his third sermon of a series given in connection with a retreat at St. Mary Catholic church, Rev. Father John J. Malone said that "Thou Shalt Love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, with thy whole soul and with all thy mind and thy neighbor as thyself," is the greatest commandment of the Law of God.

Completed cast was announced for the annual Christmas charity minstrel show of Marion Lodge of Elks to be given Dec. 10-12 at the Grand theater. R. E. Prettyman and L. F. Bailer were to act as interlocutors. Among the performers were LeRoy DeTurk, who in later years became a widely known radio entertainer. He was to sing "That Brand New Girl of Mine" and "Somebody's Wrong."

It was announced that Hotel Harding would be completed and ready for formal opening by Jan. 15 under management of Charles T. Gauvey, who had just arrived from Springfield.

After-Dinner Speaking Began to Decline, However, When Art of Gracious Dining Was Lost.

By DAMON RUNYON

AMONG our lost arts is after-dinner speaking.

It was once a commonplace accomplishment in the United States. Every community of any size had citizens who could arise and turn on jets of sparkling humorous oratory dealing with the events of the festivities.

Some men became nationally famous after-dinner speechers and were often on public occasions to grace the speakers' board. Their names lend added dignity to affairs, and their remarks were given attention by the public prints. Today we have few men gifted beyond the ordinary in this respect.

The decline of after-dinner speaking as an art of oratory generally, is largely due, of course, to the microphone which revolutionized public theory of public speaking and has killed the various schools of forensics by making just the single one with which we are familiar today.

But without reference to the mike, another and more potent reason why after-dinner speaking declined is the fact we no longer have the training grounds that used to produce these speakers. Public dinners are not nearly as numerous as they used to be and not nearly as intimate.

THEN, gentlemen gathered in comparatively small groups in comparatively small dining rooms to dine leisurely and relax and listen to their speakers, who were there only for entertainment. Then came vast assemblages in vast dining rooms with great confusion of seating and service and much over-drinking. Guests wanted music and semi-nude dancing girls and gaudy entertainment generally. They gave scant shrift to speeches.

In short, the people no longer appreciated after-dinner speakers. Lacking encouragement, speaking of this type just naturally died out. I imagine the fact that the dwindling of men's clubs that once made a great practice of club dinners and other club assemblages specializing in club speakers also had something to do with the decline of the once fine art.

I admit I like a good after-dinner speech, preferably a witty one. But in combing my memory I can think of only a few men that I rate in the same class in this respect as fellows like Rennold Wolf of the Old Friars club, Willie Collier, Marshall Wilder, Wilton Lackaye, Arnold Daly, and Capt. Irving O'Hay, a professional after-dinner speaker attending public affairs all over the nation for hire and addressing diners on whatever topic interested them as a class.

IRVING made a lot of money but he also got a lot of bad eating. He came of what I might call the Friars school of after-dinner speaking the same as Ren Wolf.

Wolf, a dramatic critic, was one of the most scintillating speakers I ever heard anywhere, more or less of that same school as Irvin "Bugs" Baer, the humorist, and George Jessel, the actor, in my opinion the foremost after-dinner speakers of these times. I must add Jimmy Walker, former mayor of New York, up there with them.

Baer and Jessel are entirely different in that Baer is rarely serious while Jessel is never twitches to the deeply serious with great effectiveness. His eulogy at the bier of his pal Ben Bernie not long ago, was one of the most beautiful things ever uttered by a human. Walker is a more studied speaker than either Baer or Jessel and more flowery. Baer is explosive and attempts no trimmings, but he can be doggone funny on that rostrum.

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: One afternoon last week I did my Christmas shopping. But don't get your hopes up. I didn't get anything for you. You don't need anything I can afford to buy and I can put all my sentiment on a ready-made two-for-a-nickel Christmas card.

I had been hearing off and on for the last couple of weeks about this being a tough year for Christmas shopping and I expected to find a lot of deserted stores with bare shelves and a cluster of salesmen huddled around the stove crying into their coat sleeves. Imagine my surprise.

I saw stuff piled up head-high as far as the eye could see and customers milling around waving folding money and elbowing each other out of the way to spend it. I must have misunderstood. It is not a bad year for Christmas shoppers who have only $10 or $15 to spend.

The effect on me was not good. I couldn't keep from thinking that anyone who enjoys it is anything wrong this Christmas in the United States should get down on his knees on the sidewalk and be thankful clear to his toenails that he lives in a country so rich that right in the middle of the greatest war in history we stage a free-wheeling Christmas spree. Even the toys are made of wood and the electric trains are cardboard facsimiles. Great hoot-nannies, nephew, what do people want?

Where else on earth would they like to have Christmas? In China? In England? In Germany? Italy? Would they like to be squatting in Alaska, Frying in the sun in the Mojave? Checking off the days in a Japanese prison camp? Floundering in the mud somewhere or what?

Your aunt keeps telling me to take it easy. I can't, but I sure can cast a dissenting vote if someone tries to convince me there is anything tough about not being able to have a real old-fashioned Christmas in the middle of a war.

But don't get the idea your uncle is going to send a pair of socks and a tie won't be necessary. I want a red tie, not too ugly, and don't forget that for winter I like my socks a mite bigger, 11 instead of 10½. I don't care what you get your aunt, but if you will ask her what her best selling books are I'd like to read them. She can convince the natives hereabouts to put on their toes and abreast of the latest developments in literature.

HONOR ROLL

We Honor our Comrades fighting in the Armed Forces of the United States

TODAY, December 7, we pause in our daily work to pay tribute to those of the Universal Cooler "family" who are "away on business"... Victory business. Two years ago this morning they, with the rest of America, were stunned by the attack on Pearl Harbor. On this second anniversary of the treacherous Jap attack they—and hundreds of other Marion fighting men—are helping to teach the sneaking Nip and his Nazi cohorts a lesson they won't forget.

Today, here in the comfort of our homes and optimistic headlines, let's remind ourselves again of our part in the Victory fight. If the men at the front can invest their lives in Victory, the very least we can do is invest our money. Buy another War Bond today!

ACTION DUE SOON ON PARLEY DECISIONS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 — Early creation of an international organization to carry out the Teheran three-power agreement for the suppression by large and small nations toward a goodwill peace was predicted by congressional leaders today.

Senator Hill of Alabama, Democratic whip, said he expects the decisions reached by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin to result before long in establishment of an international agency to handle the issue of postwar peace and security.

The sooner that action is taken, declared Hill, "the better."

At the Teheran meeting, the American, British and Russian leaders agreed to "seek the cooperation and active participation of all nations, large and small, whose peoples in heart and mind are dedicated as are our own peoples, to the elimination of tyranny and slavery, oppression and intolerance" in making "a peace which will command the good will of the overwhelming masses of the peoples of the world and banish the scourge and terror of war for many generations."

This invitation to peace-loving nations to participate—regardless of size—was in line with the Moscow four-power declaration, in which China joined. That conference recognized the necessity of establishing a general international organization "at the earliest practicable date" and Senator Guffey (D-Pa) said that date seemed to be close at hand.

It was the general opinion of legislators, that there is work to be done now on some of the problems left unsettled at Teheran.

Junk Jewelry For Soldier Bartering Sought in Drive

A junk jewelry campaign was opened yesterday at a meeting of the Auxiliary to Marion Navy club. The jewelry will be sent to the Servicemen's League of San Francisco from which it will be distributed to ports of embarkation to be sent to war areas for barter with the natives. The natives of the islands in the war area will perform many dangerous or menial tasks for a bright piece of jewelry thus saving time and extra labor for the fighting men.

Plans were made to fill 25 bags for the Marion Service Canteen, and two afghans were completed to be sent to naval hospitals. The club will send boxes to two members' sons confined to naval hospitals. Nomination of officers was also held. After the business meeting a pot-luck supper was held. Mrs. Clara Loper was a guest.

It was announced that the public is invited to participate in the junk jewelry campaign by taking their contributions to Mrs. Evelyn Reynolds of 275 South State street or Mrs. Gene Watt of 330 South High street, or by calling 6543 or 8408.

The next meeting to which members will bring contributions to the campaign instead of Christmas exchange gifts will be held Dec. 20 at the club rooms.

Battleship Wisconsin Is Christened Today

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7—The $90,000,000 super battleship Wisconsin, her bow towering higher than a five-story building, was launched into the Delaware river at the Philadelphia Navy yard today, hailed by Assistant Secretary of the Navy A. Baird as "an answer" to Japan's Pearl Harbor attack on the second anniversary of the aggression.

Mrs. Walter S. Goodland, wife of the governor of Wisconsin, christened the vessel before a cheering crowd of workmen, Navy officers, Wisconsin state officials and government executives.

SMALL TOT STILL LIVES

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 — Tiny Mary Ann Macelli, who weighed only 26 ounces when she was born three months too soon, began her ninth day of life today but no one knew whether she had gained any weight. Dr. Michael Diretano, who is caring for the child, said it had not been thought advisable to remove her from the incubator to weigh her but that it could be presumed she had gained a bit since she was absorbing more food.

PACIFIC

Teheran "doesn't in the least affect Japan's determination to crush the United States and Britain."

It also broadcast the fantastic claim that the Japanese army had killed or disabled 193,000 allied soldiers on the South Pacific and Aleutian fronts from Dec. 1942 through Nov. 1943. Japanese losses were given by the imperial headquarters communique as 32,962 killed.

Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of South Pacific allied forces, declared we now have the "springboards "from which our future offensives can be launched," and added:

"Thus I can promise: We shall have offensives.  taking back what was ours originally is just the start. Each of us has an appointment in Tokyo."

In Cairo, one of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff officers who participated in the three-power conferences, said the Americans are confident the rich Netherlands East Indies can be recaptured from the Japanese.

"I think," he said, "we can beat Japan without landing an expeditionary force on the Japanese mainland."

Outer Defenses Hit

American bombers struck at the outer defense for the Netherlands and the Philippines in raids which blanketed the 300-mile length of New Britain.

They unloaded 155 tons of bombs on Cape Gloucester, at the southeast coast of New Britain. A 600 ton freighter was set afire at Rabaul. Five loaded barges and a coastal vessel were destroyed on the northeast coast.

On the Huon peninsula of New Guinea, only 70 invasion miles from New Britain, Australians advanced farther north along the coast above Finschhafen.

In a possible forerunner to invasion, strong carrier task forces bombed the Marshall islands Saturday.

The Solomons airforce made heavy attacks on Japanese air bases on Bougainville and on nearby islands, dropping more than 2000 bombs. At South Pacific headquarters, Rear Admiral Robert Carney, Adm. Halsey's chief of staff, declared recent American carrier strikes against Rabaul demonstrated it is no longer tenable as a Japanese base, and that the enemy can't hold out on Bougainville against the present naval-air blockade.

PARLEY

are probably twice the German air force total.

Aside from its beaten submarine fleet whittled Hitler has only a handful of fighting war ships in the way of a naval arm.

Behind the opposing allied strength, stands American industry, now reaching the peak of production.

This does not mean Germany is not capable of putting up a fight but the balance sheet shows that given a continuation of the unity and determination so dramatized at the meet at Teheran—the defeat of Hitler is inevitable as the tides along the French coast.

Many feel the great words of the conference once are translated into hard reality the end might come very quickly.

Ohio Steelworkers Protest "Over Work," Leave Jobs

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 7—Production at the American Steel and Wire Co.'s American Works was halted today, as company officials reported approximately 1,200 men were idle, apparently in protest of overwork.

James P. Foley, of the police department, said the men, members of the CIO United Steelworkers of America, voted to leave their jobs this morning, at a mass meeting. A few workers left then, but when shifts changed shortly before midnight yesterday, Foley said.

Foley said unionists declared "there was being forced to do the work of three or four."

Officials of the company, a U. S. Steel subsidiary, declined to comment on the walkout.

Next Move Is To Put Allied War Plans in Action

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The first allied move, now that the Teheran conference is out of the way, naturally will be to implement the announced agreement for coordinated action against Hitler from east, west and south.

What is the most expeditious way of administering the coup de grace to the Nazi lackey? We can't get at him the way the Allies reportedly have gone in the case of Count Ciano, Mussolini's turn-coat son-in-law, who it said to have been shot in the back by a firing squad.

They tell us there's more than one way to skin a cat. That may be true but there always is the best and quickest way of doing the job. The same thing is true of the task of beating Hitler.

One Way by Air

There probably are numerous ways he could be defeated—if we are prepared to drag the war out. For one thing, it likely could be done by air, provided the Red land forces could keep the German armies engaged in fierce and bloody combat over the long period necessary to destroy the resources of the reich by bombing. Of course, you could gamble that the bombardment would break civilian morale—and admittedly it might—but it nevertheless would be a gamble and should be supplemented by other more certain measures.

The experts generally are agreed that there's only one quick way to do the job with certainty, and that's the opening of a second front in France, across the English channel. Since Stalin is essentially a man of tremendous action, and since he apparently is satisfied with the outcome of the Teheran parley, we may take it for granted that his persistent demand for the early opening of a second front in France has been satisfied.

Therefore one would expect to see the western allies achieve this with the greatest possible speed. And speed is essential if we are to save lives and conserve our national resources which now are being poured into the bottomless hopper of war.

Japs Come Next

It's essential for another thing, too, and that is to get this European upheaval over so that we can tackle the Japs. Every moment of respite we allow the little men of Nippon gives them just so much more chance to dig in and get established in conquered territories. Every moment of delay increases the risk of China being knocked out —a very real threat, despite their amazing bravery in the face of adversity which would have beaten many nations long ago.

As remarked in previous columns, the signs are that the western allies now are going full speed ahead in preparing for an early invasion of the continent. For a quick kill it must be achieved before spring because the spring rains and mud are almost sure to bog the Red armies down for a considerable period, and all-out Russian pressure is needed on the eastern front when the invasion of the west is undertaken.

The time is right for action. Hitler's once supreme military machine is deteriorating fast. The allies now have a great numerical superiority in troops. Indeed, while exact figures aren't available, it's certain that the Soviet alone can muster many more fighting men than can the reich. And both Russia and the Anglo-American allies have a great superiority in the air—a tremendous asset, especially in the case of amphibious invasion.

So the main target we're shooting at is invasion of western France. Meantime the bombing of western Europe and Germany will go on with increasing intensity. That's an essential preliminary to invasion, and of course it might crack that war-weary German morale.

Mussolini Reported Virtually Paralyzed

BERN, SWITZERLAND, Dec. 7—Italian informants from Zurich said today Benito Mussolini now is virtually paralyzed and his condition worsening steadily as the result of an outbreak of an old disease contracted in his youth.

The newspaper Le Democrate of Delemont, Switzerland, said Mussolini now is under the care of three German specialists at his villa on Lake Garda.

HEARING ON LIQUOR TO BEGIN FRIDAY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—A senate judiciary subcommittee decided today to begin public hearings in its investigation of liquor shortages with testimony Friday by Stewart Berkshire, deputy chief director of internal revenue on alcohol withdrawals from bonded warehouses.

Chairman Van Nuys (D-Ind) said the committee already has gathered information which indicates there is available now a supply of liquor which would last more than three year at normal rates of consumption.

Distillers have requested a war time limitation to 65 per cent of the quota of bottles made available to them, along with a shortage of cartons, has contributed to the widespread absence of standard brands from the shelves of retail stores.

Van Nuys said after the committee obtains data on the movement of whisky supplies, he would call glass manufacturers for testimony on the bottle situation.

OBTAIN PETITIONS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 7—Albert Edward Payne of Springfield, today requested Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel to petition for a candidate for governor. Payne, owner of the Du-Jo-Ara stock farms and not sure whether the petitions were for himself or someone else, said he did not give his party-politics.

ANNIVERSARY

seem nearly as remote as it does today.

Marion county counted at least a score of men in service in the Pacific area at the time, and there were anxious days and nights for their parents until their word trickled back, painfully slow, that most of them were still alive.

Rev. Father William J. Shackerman, in masses Monday at St. Mary Catholic church, offered special prayers, and in his sermon said: "The shocking news we heard yesterday appalls the nation and will automatically plunge us into the world war. We are a peace loving people and desire to live at peace with other nations. Much as we have longed for world peace, ardently as we have prayed for a Christian peace among the nations of the world, we do not desire peace at the cost of national dishonor."

Plants Redouble Efforts

Marion industries, most of them already on a near-war footing, redoubled their prewar efforts against sabotage and prepared for the big job they knew confronted them.

Ten Marion factories at that time listed 5,672 persons employed, a figure that increased substantially in the following months, although wartime restrictions have not permitted announcements of the extent of their growth.

Monday developments included orders from Washington to A. A. Freeman, manager of Marion airport, grounding all planes at the port as part of the all-out federal preparations for home defense.

On Monday, twenty men applied for enlistment at the Marion naval recruiting station. One of the volunteers was 58 years old. The Marion Navy club voted its pledge to full assistance to the war effort in every possible way, and arranged to place its automotive "ship" at the disposal of the Navy recruiting office.

All of these were only the first steps toward the changed tempo of Marion and all other American communities to deal with the war emergency.

"Pearl Harbor" Day Events

A few of the activities in which Marion residents were engaged on Pearl Harbor day are shown in news accounts. Judge Malcolm Hatfield of St. Joseph, Mich., was here that Sunday to speak at the initial Community Forum program of the season at Edison Junior High school. His talk was on youth problems. The Marion Musicians Union was meeting in Central Labor Union hall electing officers, headed by Jess T. Dowler as president. Marion Lodge of Elks was conducting annual memorial services with William C. Beer, Bucyrus attorney, as principal speaker and W. T. Buchanan delivering the eulogy. Many movies were enjoying Sunday crives that weekend—it happened to be the most tragic weekend of the year for traffic with 32 killed in Ohio.

Soviet Leaders Satisfied With Parley Results

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Dec. 7—The Soviet government through its newspaper Izvestia indicated today its complete satisfaction with results of the Teheran conference of Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill.

This full and official approval was expressed after Premier Stalin had returned safely to Moscow after a hazardous round trip of 1,700 miles during which his plane braved snow and zero temperatures.

"For four days over a round-table," said the Izvestia editorial, "the most eminent statesmen of our day conferred and reached complete agreement on questions of war and the most important problems of post-war organization of peace."

The editorial was spread over three columns of the front page, together with page-wide photographs of the three leaders.

"He who reads carefully Roosevelt's, Stalin's and Churchill's declaration will understand that the fate of the war has been decidedly verbally," the editorial declared.

It referred in broad, friendly fashion to the accomplishments of the British and American armies in North Africa, the Mediterranean and southern Italy and gave Russia's allies due honors for their contribution toward winning the war.

"The success of the Red army and the success of the allies quickened the pace of the war and gave even greater strength to cooperation between the allied countries in the war," Izvestia went on.

Cardington Man Gives Republican Club Talk

J. M. Francis, Cardington railroad worker, spoke Monday night in a meeting of the Marion County Young Republican club on the history of the U. S. monetary system. Carl Lehner, appointed a committee to prepare plans for the annual Lincoln Day dinner sponsored by the club, it was announced this year's arrangements will continue last year's plan of reserving tickets for 300 plates. Members decided to invite candidates for governor of the state to the January, March and April meetings as guest speakers.

NO CUT IN DRAFT CALLS LIKELY NOW

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 [illegible] war manpower commission (WMC) says there is no [illegible] call reduction in the cards at least before the end of February.

It predicts, however, that the nation is not over the industry manpower hump and will be no need for national service legislation.

The latest picture of manpower needs shows that as of July 1, 1944, including the armed services, the total labor force will be at a total of 66,300,000—about 2,000,000 more than was predicted last year and 1,500,000 more than the actual labor force at that time.

William Haber, assistant executive director of the WMC, said the new figures do not show any change in the expected [illegible] the armed forces as of next July 1—11,300,000.

He said it has been known for weeks that draft boards are behind schedules and that the "accumulated deficits" in inductions will be made up.

Russian Band Plays

A 22-piece Russian army band at a signal sounding like "Bronski" played the "Internationale" and then "God Save the King" while Churchill stood to salute Stalin with right arm raised and hand half-clenched.

A British officer picked up and held the sword rigidly before him while Churchill spoke on behalf of the king about the "steel-hearted citizens of Stalingrad."

Stalin replied with a low-voiced expression of appreciation.

Stalin took the sword from Churchill's out-stretched hands, kissed the naked blade and handed it to Marshal Klementi Y. Voroshilov. A Russian officer, using the arm-swinging, stiff-legged Soviet ceremonial march, took the symbol from Voroshilov, wheeled and with snap and precision marched from the room. Voroshilov later brought back the sword to show it to Roosevelt and the others.

Many of the positions near home.

New trainees admitted every Monday. All applicants must meet WMC regulations. Write WAR SERVICE DIVISION, Tiffin University, or call at the college office any day between 8:00 A. M. and 5:00 P. M. for information.

This Christmas, Give War Bonds

THE PRESENT WITH A FUTURE

War Bonds are the present with a future for everyone on your Christmas list. They are the present with a future for your fighting men . . . providing him the weapons he needs to finish the job and come home . . . building a reserve for the day of his return. They are the present with a future for your children . . . savings funds for their education . . . ensuring them happier Christmases tomorrow in a free America. They are the present with a future for a friend . . . helping to make possible the attainment of some long cherished objective after Victory.

Bonds can be the present with a future for your entire family . . . the start of a nest-egg for a new home or to make some other peacetime dream come true. They are the present with a future for the nation . . . holding down the cost of war, building a sound, prosperous post-war America. They are the gifts that hold promise for the people of Axis-occupied lands . . . speeding the day when they, too, will celebrate Christmas again as free men and women. Think it over when you do your Christmas shopping . . . but don't think too long. BUY THE MOST THOUGHTFUL GIFT OF ALL. Remember, when you give Bonds . . . you give the Future! For, every Bond is a down payment on the kind of America we all want in the Christmases to come.

Presidents Slight Favorites To Beat Columbus Tonight

Marion Harding's Presidents are slight favorites to defeat Columbus North at Edison gym tonight but only because of their opening 32 to 14 drubbing of the undermanned Columbus Willis cagers, who can't be rated in as good a class as the H. Roman Polly Capital City Polar Bears.

Tonight's fray will usher in the 1943-44 campaign for the visiting North team, which has only one member of last year's first string quintet back, Ralph Pryor. Two Presidents, Stew Young and Chuck Fazio, were used as regulars last year.

This really insignificant advantage in competitive varsity experience might boost Prexy stock a trifle higher. However, there's an important catch to this business of predicting the outcome of the North-Harding game—namely, five Polar Bears who played on the second team last season and who this year are expected to attain first-team cage caliber. These five are Dale and Dave Bonnie, Jack Jennings, George Williams and Jesse Van Fossen.

Played Last Year

All five of these boys were active in the two Prexy-North clashes last year, both of which were taken by the locals. The two Bonnie brothers especially made a lasting impression on Marion fans with their steady, "pressure" playing. Dale Bonnie, a six-foot-one-inch forward, was a member of the first team of the all-Columbus football squad this fall.

Jennings represents the high-elevation mark of the North team. He is six feet three, approximately the same height as Fazio, Harding's aggressive pivot worker. Letterman Pryor and Van Fossen both stand an even six feet. Williams with his five feet eight and Dave Bonnie, five feet 11, are the only two likely North starters who fall below the six count.

In their 18-point romp over Delaware Friday night, the Presidents were favored with a decided height edge. Tonight, that department will shape up about even. An interesting individual battle between Fazio and Jennings for control of the backboards is in the offing.

Coach Dewey Bogher seemed pleased over the showing of his Prexies against the Willis five but he tosses in an appropriate word of warning concerning the probable great strength of North in comparison with Delaware. Bogher expects to start the same lineup against the Polar Bears that began the Delaware fracas. That would be Fritz Guy and Rex Kilbourn at forward, Fazio at center, and Stew Young and Elvin Beach at guards. Bob Virden and Bill Williams, both of whom posted admirable performances in the inaugural, will be on deck for frequent replacement services.

North's Starting Team

Coach Hickman of North announced his starting five as Dale Bonnie and George Williams at forwards, Jennings at center and Dave Bonnie and Pryor or Van Fossen at the guards.

The fog holding back the revelation of the true ability of North hasn't been lifted for Hickman, either, as he says, "The fans will know about as much as I will about half way through the Harding game in regard to our ability."

Starting time for tonight's game, which will be the only weekday Prexy contest until the central district tournament in March, is 8 o'clock.

A game between two teams composed of sophomore members of the Harding squad may be played as a preliminary to the varsity tilt at 7 o'clock. No interscholastic reserve game will be held as North is not carrying JayVee teams to out-of-town engagements.

The same distribution of tickets as applied for the opener with Delaware also will hold true for tonight's game. The ducats are distributed as follows: 100 for Harding pupils, 50 for students of the visiting school, and 100 for Marion adults. Local adult tickets went on sale at the Markert and Lewis clothing store Saturday morning.

SPORTS THE MARION STAR

Marion Wins Share of All-Star Choices

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

The result of the tabulation of votes for the three Press Service All-Ohio football squads have been announced and everyone who is a devoted follower of scholastic athletics in this district and the N.C.O. league in particular should be pleased with them.

There are no feasible grounds on which to wage an argument that Marion Harding and St. Mary's High schools, and other district elevens were denied due recognition on these three mythical teams.

Three Harding gridders, Linemen Elvin Beach and Chuck Fazio and Halfback Stew Young, and two St. Marys, Center-Quarterback Dan Kelly and Back Danny McGinn, were awarded positions on a least one of the trio of select high school, and other district players Salvatore DeVito of Shelby, Bob Dove of Ashland, Emery Shaffer and Herb Durtschi of Galion, also were mentioned on the honorable mention lists of the three aggregations.

Of this galaxy of North Central Ohio luminaries, Beach and Fazio were the leaders in laurel-winning. Beach was placed as first-team center on the United Press squad and second-string snapper-back on the more thorough Associated Press poll, while Fazio landed a first-eleven tackle berth on the International News Service's team.

With the recognition of Beach and Fazio by sports reporters, coaches, and officials throughout the state, the second consecutive season that Harding players had attained statewide stature on Press Service outfits was marked. Last year, under the tutelage of Vic Dorris and Joe Petrich, in their first year as Harding grid mentors, Don Kay, Ohio State Buckeye this fall, and Harold Jenkins, currently of the United States Navy, were placed on the first team of the United Press squad. This season again Dorris and Petrich directed two gridders to All-Ohio prominence.

Fazio and Beach, as well as the other nine Prexy regulars, never seemed to have a "letdown" when they were in the game. Both constantly gave words of encouragement to team-mates, which naturally kept the determination and pep of the starting eleven, to say nothing of the entire squad of 33 boys at a high pitch.

Fazio, one of the most accomplished tackles ever to wear the Red and Black Moleskins of Harding Presidents, was generally regarded as the N.C.O.'s outstanding lineman, excluding centers. Throughout the season, he was definitely "bad medicine" to enemy defenses and his slashing downfield blocks were something to marvel at. Perhaps an even greater asset than his actual sterling tackle play, were his capabilities as a spirited team captain.

Beach, who was elected as Harding captain for the 1944 season at the recent football banquet, unquestionably will measure up to Fazio as a player-helmsman. If there was a player who outshone Fazio in defensive play on the Harding team that played was Beach, a line-backer. "Al," as he was called by mates, never seemed to experience what you would call an "off night" throughout rough and tough season. He was in on two of every three Prexy tackles. Beach is only 18 and a junior, which means that he will be back at the center post next year. As a junior he was a fine player but as a last-year man next season, there's no telling to what gridiron heights he may rise.

* * *

Friday night's Mt. Vernon-Zanesville cage encounter, must have been wonderful for spectators to watch. A mere 43 personal fouls were called as compared to the 13 in the Harding-Delaware contest. Believe or not, Mt. Vernon held a 12 to 5 lead at the half-time only to have Zanesville prance back onto the floor and account for 22 points in the third period to defeat the Yellow Jackets, 30 to 20. The Mounties were held to two markers in the third quarter. Another odd angle of this exceedingly odd game was the fact that Morgan, high Zanesville pointman with 14 counters, made all of them in the wild and wooley third frame.

* * *

The Bexley lions, who meet Marion Harding Friday night, opened their season Friday night with a 34 to 33 trimming of Columbus Aquinas. Barrett led Bexley scoring with 17 points.

* * *

A correction on the Shelby-Crestline score—It should have been 45 to 43 in favor of Crestline instead of the 33 to 36 count as originally reported.

* * *

This year as an added attraction to the Marion County basketball league, a special reserve loop has been formed. Every county school having a varsity team except Meeker, is represented in the Junior Varsity circuit. A cup will be warded to the winner at the end of the season.

Huber and Waldo Teams Winners in County Loop Games

Three games of the Marion County Basketball league were played last night at the Y. M. C. A., and three more were announced for tonight by M. H. Mewhorter, boys' work secretary.

Games last night were Waldo versus Greenwood Sunday school, Huber versus Schneider Brothers and Huber girls vesus Fairfield girls.

In the Huber-Schneider Brothers tilt, the Huber cagers came out on top, 59 to 23. Highscorer was Gene Shellhorn, member of the Huber team and former Harding High star, who rolled up 16 points. Two other members of the Huber team with high places were Ferrin with 14 and Hensel with 12.

Waldo triumphed over Greenwood Sunday school, 58 to 25. John Ward of the Waldo team was in top scoring position with 20 points; Smith of Waldo was second with 18 and Thorpe of Greenwood, third with 11.

Second game to go to Huber representatives was the contest between Huber girls and Fairfield girls. Huber copped the victory, 26 to 6. Mochel and Miller of the Huber team were high with 13 and 10 points respectively.

Charles Murray was referee.

Games scheduled for tonight at the Y. M. C. A. are: Universal girls versus Marion Steam Shovel girls at 7:30; Universal Cooler versus Local No. 1947 (Alloy Cast Steel) at 8:30, and Kirkpatrick versus Green Camp at 9:30. It was announced that the Fairfield team was withdrawning from the league due to loss of about two-thirds of their team. The Fairfield position on schedules will be filled by the Green Camp Independents.

MASSILLON'S CLAIM SURPRISE TO WAITE

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 7—Two of Ohio's strongest high school football teams—Toledo Waite and Massillon—are building up a nice little wartime argument for post-war settlement.

Waite Coach Kenneth (Jack) Mollenkopf is surprised that Massillon claims the state championship when "I believe Waite is every bit as good a team."

He told a downtown coaches' luncheon honoring his undefeated and untied Indians yesterday thta he had attended a banquet at Massillon recently "and much to my astonishment a large banner reading 'Massillon—State Champions' caught my eye.

"We tried every way possible to book Massillon at the start of the season and were turned down."

At Massillon, Coach Ellwood Kammer commented "we claimed the state championship because we were undefeated, but if Waite wants to claim it, they're welcome to do so."

He said Waite's bid for a game this year had been rejected because of wartime travel restrictions.

"In 1941 and 1942, the Waite-Massillon game drew poorly," he continued. "We naturally assumed that with the war still on this year, Toledo attendance would be still worse and so we decided not to play them. If the war's over next year, however, we'll be glad to play Waite again."

Mollenkopf declared "I am not boasting but I believe Waite is every bit as good a team as Massillon after seeing it play. As a matter of fact I think our club is faster."

St. Louis Bowler Takes Lead in Chicago Event

BATTLE ROYAL FEATURE OF THURSDAY MAT CARD

Marks Return of Jack Bloomfield and Irish McGee.

A six-man battle royal bringing together some of the greatest names in midwestern wrestling circles is on tap for presentation to Marion mat fans at the Armory arena Thursday night.

The two-hour tug-of-war will mark the return to local wars of two fighters who have not appeared here in many months. They are Jack Bloomfield, the New York City streak, and Irish McGee.

They'll team up against Whitey Walberg, who in recent weeks has established himself with the Marion lot, Gil LaCrosse, the well-known Toledo welder, Joe Ferona, fiery Italian, and Dory Funk, the former University of Indiana flash.

The battle royal will get under way at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the Armory located on West Church street.

FOREST AT MT. VICTORY

Forest High will play at Mt. Victory Friday in what should prove a real test for both teams. In games last week Mt. Victory defeated a good Ridgeway team 30 to 28 while Forest upset Kenmhead 14 to 6. Ridgeway's reserves won over Mt. Victory in two overtimes. The Forest reserves won 22 to 8. Ridgeway will play at Forest Dec. 14.

St. Mary Travels To Lima Tonight To Play St. Rose

Marion St. Mary [illegible] attempt to push their [illegible] basketball percentage [illegible] .500 mark tonight when they travel to Lima to [illegible] the Lima St. Rose Parochial [illegible] time is 8:15.

The Irish were decisioned by a determined Harpster team Saturday night, 31 to 20, after winning their initial 1943-44 clash from Cardington, 64 to 21.

Lane McCrate, St. Mary [illegible] is expected to send the quintet which worked most of the Harpster contest against St. Rose tonight. Danny McGinnis, number one Irish scorer with 29 points in two games, is a sure bet to hold down a starting berth either at guard or forward. Jim Lawler, limited to only one point by Harpster defensemen after tallying 16 against Cardington, probably will be at center for the opening tip-off. Other candidates for starting positions are Bob Tobin, Steve Norris, Pat Bray, Bob Wintersteller, Larry Leser, and John Gray. It is doubtful whether Dan Kelly, letterman from last year's Irish five will be in shape for the St. Rose clash. He is still not fully recovered from an injury received late in the football season. Upon his return, St. Mary hopes for a successful season will be considerably brightened.

The St. Rose cagers are expected to pull no punches against the Irish in view of their 32 to 0 trouncing at the hands of the locals in the 1942 grid campaign.

Buck Cagers To Open Season

By The Associated Press

[illegible] Coach Harold G. Olsen [illegible] student, six feet one-fourth inch, Paul Huston of Xenia, 18-year-old 4-F, six feet three.

Center—Arnold Risen of Williamstown, Ky., 18-year-old 4-F, six feet eight one-half inches.

"I'd feel safer saying these boys would make a fine team a year from now than to say they'll be a good team now," Olsen said. "Maybe they'll surprise me. I hope they do."

Denison, loaded with naval talent, very well may whip the Bucks. And Kentucky, coming up next Monday, never is a soft touch. Then the boys will rest until Jan. 1 when they start the hard grind. In a period of one month they'll play 12 conference games.

There's other talent than the five aforementioned. Rodney Caudill, a Middletown youth who went to Miami university at Oxford last year, is man No. 6. "He's always in on the scoring," Olsen said. Caudill can go either [illegible] guard or forward. [illegible] wants are Gene Clark [illegible] at guard or Ken [illegible] Dugger at center [illegible] Gunton of Cleveland [illegible] guard Jack Hammet at [illegible] at forward.

Besides the Denison and [illegible] games, both [illegible] here, Ohio State's schedule [illegible] Jan. 1; Great Lakes [illegible] here Jan. 8; Pittsburgh [illegible] 14 and 15; Indiana [illegible] Purdue there Jan. 22; [illegible] here Jan. 28 and 29; [illegible] there Feb. 4 and 5; [illegible] here Feb. 11 and 12; [illegible] Feb. 18 and 19; Illinois [illegible]

Reardon, 38-year-[illegible] general manager of the Scranton baseball club of the Eastern [illegible] becomes head of the farm [illegible] of the Philadelphia Phillies, [illegible] Herb Pennock announced a [illegible] first official act since he [illegible] elected general manager [illegible] Phillies.

AUCTION SKIPS HOGS DUE TO MARKET JAM

Yards Refusing To Take Animals on Floor Price Basis.

As a result of measures taken by the Marion Union Stock Yards to deal with the critical hog market situation, hog receipts at yesterday's weekly auction were at one of the lowest levels in the history of auctions in Marion. This was largely due to the yards' announcement several days ago that it would not accept hogs in the 200-270 pound good quality class until telephone arrange-ments for the animals were made in advance. Some hogs of this category came in despite the an-nouncement, but were refused, there being no market for them at present while the market is glutted and packers are swamped.

The few hogs sold yesterday were pigs, roughs, stags and boars. Top prices for other animals yes-terday were $17 for calves, $14.25 for lambs and $15 for steers. Some white face stock calves sold for $30 to $46.50 a head. Consign-ments were made by 279 persons from Marion and nearby counties.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I FLUSHED violently at my husband's raillery, but the look of attention which flashed into my father's eyes eased my embarrassment, and I found myself calmly listening to his interested question.

"You have thought of a possible solution?" he asked.

Only a Guess

"It is only a guess, of course," I answered. "But I thought perhaps—the apartment Steve had is centrally located, and the building has at least three separate entrances—Milner might—"

Dicky struck his hand against his knee again.

"I'll bet you three silver pennies you've struck it!" he exclaimed. "Milner's going to move into Steve's apartment, and have Steve live here, hoping that in that way he still can have a listening post in the Lansfield!"

"Is that what you meant, Margaret?" my father asked gravely.

"Yes, it is," I answered quickly, "but—"

"I don't think we need to make any qualification of your conclusion," my father said, smiling at my confusion. "I agree with Richard that your quick intuition is, no doubt, correct. And of course this development makes it all the more necessary that Redfield is made to realize he must keep faith with us if the penalty is not to be exposure and disgrace for him."

He stopped abruptly, and his keen eyes swept my face.

"You have thought of something else, Margaret," he said. "What is it?"

"I was wondering," I said hesitantly, "just what reason Steve will give for offering his resignation. It will have to be one which Milner will believe, and which he will also accept as necessary. I can imagine he will not relish having Steve leave the Veritzen organization and his position as leading man."

"No, he certainly will not," my father agreed. "That position is a great one for Steve. I confess I had not gone beyond the fact that he would resign within the hour on some pretext or another, but I can see that we must provide the excuse for him. What do you suggest, Margaret?"

Madge's Suggestion

"It can't be mere artistic temperament," I said. "Milner never would stand for that. But neither would it be wise, I think, to stage an accident such as is supposed to have happened to Mary."

"That would be stretching Old Man Coincidence until he split at the seams," Dicky said.

"That's what I thought," I said, "and, what is of more importance, if he were apparently confined to his room he would be of no use to you. Father, in watching Milner, you are blind and misleading him."

Spencer Agrees

My father nodded assent, but he did not speak.

"That leaves, I am afraid, only Noel and Mary," I said slowly.

"Noel and Mary?" my father repeated, as if he did not grasp the words.

"Yes," I said, "I do not see any other way to provide an excuse for Steve which Milner will have to accept without question."

"I am beginning to see what you mean," he said. "Will you please outline just how you expect to carry out your plan?"

"I know the climax of it," I answered slowly, "Stephen will tell Milner that Noel has come to him, told him that Mary is well enough to return to the cast, and ordered him to present his resignation to Veritzen, the alternative being a beating within an inch of his life."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Food Rations for All

An old doctor friend of mine who thought he had retired and went to California in 1936 has been called back into active service, and is acting, without pay, of course, as medical adviser to his local food rationing board. He has just written to me of some of his trials and his sense of being imposed on by applicants who come with certificates from their doctors stating that the patient must have more food or more of a different kind of food.

"Doctors," he writes, "react differently. They go from an attitude of complete indifference to a willingness to give any patient anything he asks for, usually on the patient's own judgment."

A request came in for 600 points of processed foods (canned goods) for diverticulitis (a condition of irritation of the lower bowel). One wonders why the patient can not puree her own vegetables in her own kitchen. Laziness or ignorance?

One can understand the request of a diabetic for more meat, but most of the requests are for canned fruits and fruit juices. Why should a diabetic need fruit juice?

There were 47 requests for more meat for diabetes and four for hyperinsulinism (which is just the opposite of diabetes). True extra meat is good for hyperinsulinism, but it is very rare disease. There are probably not more than 200 cases in the United States, and how could four appear in a community of 250,000 population?

Some of the requests are:

For "thyroid condition"—extra pineapple juice, tomato juice, grapefruit juice, apple juice, grape juice. (This is just nonsense. None of these things are good for any "thyroid condition").

For "chronic arthritis"—one gallon of pineapplejuice a week—(again nonsense).

For colitis—per week one can peaches, one can pears, two cans fruit cocktail, four cans condensed soup (the peaches and the pears are positively bad for colitis).

"But it's kidney that cast the climax," writes my friend. "If one were to take seriously the claims of the patients as to what they couldn't eat, one would despair of the survival of the human race. Here again it would seem that only a diet of canned fruit juices would keep them alive. And the doctors sign the certificates!"

My own knowledge has lived on rationing since it began and I can say that any person with any kind of food allergy can get what he or she needs on the ordinary ration plan.

The situation reminds me of the old days of prohibition when a doctor would sign a prescription for whiskey for anybody at $3 a head. How many invalids really need whiskey? Plenty of people like it, but nobody needs it.

It is all unfair and unpatriotic. I can not think of any disease condition that requires food that can not be procured in any part of the United States on ordinary rationing.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Dec. 8

THE STELLAR influences promise a moderately successful and active state of affairs. The routine or customary trend of events may be stepped up by some clever, original and effective thinking or initiative, coming from sudden flashes or peculiar hunches at times of doubt. Draw on inner resources, and proceed with calm and conviction rather than explosive or erratic attempts to force issues. Travel, law, professional activities as well as social and domestic interests may flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a pleasant and progressive year in which debatable or critical issues may be brought to a gratifying climax by keen insight, original thinking, or even intuitions or hunches beyond the realm of logic and reason. Sudden insight or peculiar urges, may save a perplexing situation if calmly and confidently enforced and erratic or quixotic impulses held in restraint. Business, finance, possessions, travel and litigation should flourish and the domestic and social life can be pleasant and quite active.

A child born on this day while having much talent and versatility, yet may enjoy its highest successes by originality, ingenuity, and the inspiration of subtle or peculiar inner urges, with singular vision or penetration.
